

Amonthep Chawla, Ph.D.
1601 East-West Rd., Honolulu, HI
Telephone: (808) 944-7433
Email: amonthep@hawaii.edu
www2.hawaii.edu/~amonthep

Education

Ph.D.	Economics, University of Hawaii at Manoa	May 2008
M.A.	Economics, University of Hawaii at Manoa	December 2003
Grad. Certificate	Population Studies Program, University of Hawaii at Manoa	May 2007
B.A. (Hons)	Economics, Thammasat University, Thailand	July 2000

Dissertation

Title: Macroeconomic Aspects of Demographic Changes and Intergenerational Transfers in Thailand.

Dissertation Committee: Andrew Mason (Chairperson), Sang-Hyop Lee, Gerard Russo, Timothy Halliday, Yean-Ju Lee (External member).

Areas of Concentration: Population Economics, Macroeconomics and Public Finance.

Work Experiences

Visiting Scholar, Nihon University Population Research Institute (Japan) and Population and Health Studies Program, East-West Center, 2007-present.

Research Assistant, Macroeconomic Aspects of Intergenerational Transfers, Population and Health Studies Program, East-West Center, 2005 – 2007.

Research Analyst, Research Department, Bangkok Bank (Thailand), 2000-2001.

Teaching Experiences

Instructor/Graduate Assistant, Department of Economics, University of Hawaii at Manoa

- Lecturer, Introduction to Statistics (Econ 321), Summer 2006.
- Teaching Assistant, Principles of Microeconomics (Econ 130), Spring 2006.
- Lecturer, Intermediate Macroeconomics (Econ 300), Summer 2004.

Awards

East-West Center Scholarship, full tuition and financial support scholarship awarded to attain graduate study at the University of Hawaii, 2001-2005.

Bhumibol Scholarship, the most prestigious scholarship in Thailand awarded for the highest academic performance in each department by His Majesty the King Bhumibol Adulajadej, 2000.

Conference Participation

Chawla, A. (2008). Population Aging, Intergenerational Transfers, and Saving in Thailand. Population Association of America Meeting, 17-19 April, 2008, New Orleans.

Phananiramai, M. and A. Chawla. (2007). Changing Labor Income, Consumption and Age Reallocation in Thailand. International Seminar on “Asia’s Dependency Transition: Intergenerational Equity, Poverty Alleviation and Public Policy”, 1-3 November, 2007, Tokyo, Japan.

Macroeconomic Aspects of Intergenerational Transfers, 2005-2007. Annual meeting for the National Transfer Account Project, which is the collaboration project between the Center for the Economics and Demography of Aging, University of California at Berkeley and the Population and Health Studies Program, East-West Center.

Population Summer Seminar, June 2004. Population and Health Studies Program, East-West Center.

Skills

Competency in quantitative methods and use of statistical software package, such as STATA and SPSS.

Experience with household survey data, i.e., Socio-economic Survey (SES) of Thailand and Family Income and Expenditure Surveys (FIES) of Japan.

References

Dr. Andrew Mason (Dissertation Advisor)

Professor, Economics Department
University of Hawaii at Manoa
Tel: (808) 956-8118
Email: amason@hawaii.edu

Dr. Gerard Russo

Associate Professor, Economics Department
University of Hawaii at Manoa
Tel: (808) 956-7065
Email: russo@hawaii.edu

Dr. Sang-Hyop Lee

Associate Professor, Economics Department
University of Hawaii at Manoa
Tel: (808) 956-8590
Email: leesang@hawaii.edu

Dr. Naohiro Ogawa

Professor, Economics Department
Director, Nihon University Population
Research Institute
Nihon University, Tokyo, Japan
Tel: 81-3-5280-7330
Email: ogawa@eco.nihon-u.ac.jp