

Curriculum Vitae

Julianne F. Flowers

*429 Rockingham Lane
Woodstock, Georgia 30189
(770) 592-7540*

*Department of Political Science
Georgia State University
P.O. Box 4069
Atlanta, Georgia 30302
(404) 463-9910*

jflowers2@student.gsu.edu

---

---

Education

Doctoral Candidate      Georgia State University
Fields: American Government, Comparative Government, International Relations
Expected date of completion March 2003

MA      University of Tennessee
Fields: American Government, Methods, Public Administration

BA      Georgia College
Major: Political Science, Minor: Criminal Justice

Publications

Flowers, Julianne F., Audrey Haynes and Michael Crespin. 2003 "The Media, the Campaign and the Message," American Journal of Political Science 47(2): 259-273.

Haynes, Audrey, Julianne F. Flowers and Paul-Henri Gurian. 2002. "Getting the Message Out Early: Candidate Messaging Strategy during the Invisible Primary," Political Research Quarterly 55(3): 633-52.

Haynes, Audrey, Julianne F. Flowers. "News Norms and the Strategic Timing of Candidate Messages," Journal of Political Marketing 2003." 1(4): 1-22.

Works in Progress

Howard, Robert M. and Julianne F. Flowers. "A Catch 22 for State Courts: The Use of Adequate and Independent State Grounds."

Nixon, David C., and Julianne F. Flowers. "Statutory and Symbolic Components of Appointment Politics," Under Review

Flowers, Julianne F., and Audrey Haynes. "Mediated Message or Manipulated Media: Who Controls the Campaign Information Environment."

Haynes, Audrey and Julianne F. Flowers. "Timing is Everything: Candidate Message Strategy and the Election Cycle"

Flowers, Julianne F. "Republican Tide Rising: An examination of the Institutional Impact of the Emerging Republican Party in the Georgia General Assembly"

Dissertation

"The Nature and Genesis of Parliamentary Rule Changes: A View from the State."

Within the realm of legislative studies there is a general consensus that institutions matter. There is a considerable lack of consensus, however, on why and how institutions matter. This dissertation research project examines how and why institutions matter through a systematic analysis of the nature and impetus of legislative rule changes within state legislatures. By identifying when and how institutional rules change we should arrive at a better understanding of if, how, and when rules constrain the behavior of individual members of the legislature. State legislative bodies are used because they introduce a comparative quality that allows us to better isolate the effect of independent variables such as partisanship and institutional workload than does the traditional focus on the US House of Representatives. State legislatures also provide a broader variation in institutional design that allows us to better consider the effect of the initial institution in constraining and shaping institutional innovation.

Dissertation Advisor. Dr. Glenn Abney.

Dissertation Committee: Dr. David C. Nixon and Dr. Dan Franklin.

Expected completion date August 2003

Research Grants

GSU Dissertation Grant ($1000.00) "The Nature and Genesis of Parliamentary Rules: A View from the American States." 2002

Teaching Experience

American Government

Parties and Elections

Introduction to Public Administration

Women in Politics

Global Issues

Introduction to Comparative Politics

Constitutional Law

Comparative Criminal Justice

Teaching Interest

American Government, Legislative Institutions and Process (undergraduate & graduate)

Parties and Interest Groups, Parties and Elections (undergraduate & graduate)

Introduction to Research and Methods (undergraduate & graduate)

Bureaucratic Politics, State Government (undergraduate & graduate)

Professional Employment

Visiting Instructor, Department of Political Science, Loyola University Chicago (2003 – present)

Visiting Instructor, Department of Political Science, Georgia State University (2002-2003)

Research Assistant, Independent Regulatory Commission Data Base Project (NSF Grant SES 00-95962), Georgia State University (2001 – present).

Instructor, Department of Political Science, Georgia State University (1999- present)

Part Time Instructor, Department of Political Science and International Affairs, Kennesaw State University (1998 – present)

Graduate Research Assistant, Applied Research, Georgia State University (2000)

Graduate Research Assistant, Department of Political Science, Georgia State University (1998)

Assistant Professor of Political Science, Department of Government and Sociology, Georgia College and State University (1992-1995)
Courses offered: American Politics and Government, Introduction to Public Administration, Constitutional Law, Women in Politics, Parties and Elections, Comparative Criminal Justice Systems.

Instructor, Department of Political Science, University of Tennessee (1985-1986)

Graduate Assistant, Department of Political Science, University of Tennessee (1983-1985)

Conference Papers

Julianne F. Flowers 2003 “If Congress Sends Preference Signals and the Bureaucracy Doesn’t Listen, Did Congress Really Say Anything?” paper to be presented at the 2003 American Political Science Association Conference in Philadelphia.

Howard, Robert M., Julianne F. Flowers, and Kenneth W. Sheppard. 2003 “Ideology, Constraint and the Elimination of Supreme Court Review: Examining State Court Use of Adequate and Independent State Grounds.” paper presented at the 2003 Midwest Political Science Association Conference in Chicago, Illinois.

Nixon, David C. and Julianne F. Flowers. 2002 “Information Exchange in Confirmation Hearings: the FCC nominations of the 1980’s and 1990’s.” paper presented at the 2002 Southern Political Science Association Conference in Savannah, Georgia.

Haynes, Audrey A. and Julianne F. Flowers. 2002. "When Candidates Change Their Tune: An Examination of the Dynamics of Candidate Messaging Strategy in Presidential Nomination Campaigns." paper presented at the 2002 Southern Political Science Association Conference in Savannah, Georgia.

Nixon, David C., Julianne F. Flowers and Amy Bulger. 2002. "Media and the Appointment Process for the Securities and Exchange Commission." paper presented at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association, September 2002.

Nixon, David C., and Julianne F. Flowers. 2002. "Statutory and Symbolic Components of Appointment Politics." paper presented at the 2002 Midwest Political Science Association Conference in Chicago, Illinois.

Nixon, David C. and Julianne F. Flowers. 2002. "Signaling and Adjustments in the Appointments Process." paper presented at the 2002 Western Political Science Association Conference in Long Beach, California.

Flowers, Julianne F. 2001. "The Rules of the Game: The Genesis and Nature of Parliamentary Rule Changes in Legislative Systems." paper presented at the 2001 Southern Political Science Association Conference in Atlanta, Georgia.

Flowers, Julianne F. 2001. "The Dynamics of Rules in Legislative Institutions." paper presented at the 2001 American Political Science Association Conference in San Francisco, California.

Flowers, Julianne F., Audrey Haynes and Michael Crespin. 2001. "The Media, the Campaign and the Message: The Battle for Public Influence." paper presented at the 2001 Midwest Political Science Association Conference in Chicago, Illinois

Flowers, Julianne F. 2000. "The Entrepreneurial State: A Global Perspective." paper presented at the 2000 American Political Science Association Conference in Washington

Flowers, Julianne F. 2000. "The Nature and Genesis of Parliamentary Rule Changes: A View from the State." paper presented at the 1999 Southern Political Science Association Conference in Savannah, Georgia

Haynes, Audrey, Julianne F. Flowers and Paul-Henri Gurian. 1999. "Getting the Word Out Early: Candidate Messaging Strategy during the Invisible Primary." paper presented at the 1999 American Political Science Association Conference in Atlanta, Georgia

Flowers, Julianne F. 1999. "Republican Tide Rising: An examination of the Institutional Impact of the Emerging Republican Party in the Georgia General Assembly." paper presented at the 1999 Southwest Political Science Association Conference in San Antonio

Nominated for Best Graduate Student Paper Award

References

Dr. Glenn Abney, Professor. Chair. Department of Political Science, P.O. Box 4069, Georgia State University, University Plaza, Atlanta, Georgia 30302.

Dr. David C. Nixon, Assistant Professor. Department of Political Science, P.O. Box 4069, Georgia State University, University Plaza, Atlanta, Georgia 30302.

Dr. Audrey Haynes, Assistant Professor. Department of Political Science. Baldwin Hall, Athens, Georgia 30602-1615

Dr. Allison Calhoun-Brown, Associate Professor. Department of Political Science, P.O. Box 4069, Georgia State University, University Plaza, Atlanta, Georgia 30302.

Dr. Mike Digby, Chair, Department of Government and Sociology, Georgia College and State University, Milledgeville, Georgia 31061

Dr. John M. Scheb, II, Professor, Department of Political Science, 1001 McClung Tower, Knoxville, Tennessee 37996