The examples below are similar to those in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 5th ed., 2001 (available at the library's Reference Desk). If your particular type of source is not listed below, consult pages 239-281 of the manual to determine the correct format.

APA style is very specific. Follow the spacing, italics, commas, and punctuation marks exactly as they are shown in these examples and in the manual. When creating a Reference List, all entries must be double spaced and listed alphabetically.

Book, one author (p.248)

Book, two authors (p.224)

Journal article, one author (p. 240 #1)

Journal article, two authors (p. 240 #2)

Magazine article (p. 241 #6)

Article / essay from an edited book (p. 252 #34)

Article from a reference book: dictionary, encyclopedia, etc. (p. 254 #38)

The CQ Researcher (p. 241 #6)