Campus Security Logs Revisited

By Jon Wood

Ka Leo Contributing Columnist

Like the handful of students who regard the Ka Leo as their only source of news, I have come to rely on the Campus Beat column to keep me abreast of the week's electrifying events. And like so many of you, I am left to wonder if there is something more to these pithy tales of woe.

To better illustrate this dilemma, I have compiled an exhaustive list of examples. The segments in bold are actual excerpts from Tuesday's campus security log. I have since added conclusions of my own device in an effort to provide a more complete picture.

Friday, Oct. 20

7:30 a.m.

Wooden benches in front of the Marine Science building were damaged. There was no cost estimated for the repairs... that is until the guy from purchasing arrived and said, "step aside, amateurs."

11:40 a.m.

A backpack was stolen from the first floor bathroom at the Athletics Center. The backpack contained $5, a jacket, Visa card and state ID. The bag is valued at $40... and was probably very light.

2:36 p.m.

A male student living in the Lokelani dorms reported a fan and $50 stolen from his room. Authorities expect that these fan-related burglaries will persist as local temperatures continue to rise. As for the $50, one can only look to society and its misguided emphasis on material wealth.

Saturday, Oct. 21

2:30 a.m.

Campus security received reports of someone throwing bottles from the roof of the Mokihana dorms. Security checked the area, but no one was found... and expectedly so, what with all the commotion surrounding those two kids throwing bottles off the third floor.

Tuesday, Oct. 24

11:38 a.m.

A black 18-speed bicycle was stolen from the Music building. The suspect is believed to have gotten away much quicker than he first expected.

Wednesday, Oct. 25

8:01 a.m.

A fire extinguisher on the fourth floor of the Pacific Ocean Science Technology building was found missing and its glass case broken... but mind you, not in that order.

Thursday, Oct. 26

4:09 p.m.

A male student had his coin purse stolen in the Social Science building, room 623. The purse contained approximately $11. As for his dignity, leave it to Campus Beat to strip him of that.

6:15 p.m.

A bright red folding bicycle was stolen from the Music building. Year and make of the bike is not known... though authorities suspect that it was somehow sent here from the future.

8:15 p.m.

A male student had his backpack stolen while he was running at Cooke Field. Two weeks earlier, the same student reported his shoes stolen while he was lifting weights, a claim that was likewise discarded as shameless attempt to impress the ladies.
