

21st Annual U. H. Law Benefit GOLF TOURNAMENT

MAY 20, 2008

HAWAII PRINCE GOLF CLUB

Elder Law Clinic staff and volunteers (from left to right): Cathy Lowenberg, Kyle Kagihara, Grace Cortez, Prof. Jim Pietsch, Malia Nickison and Rebecca Anderson. The Clinic helps hundreds of needy elderly each year.

Help Support Hawai'i's Law School and Its Many Community Services

Please Join Us at Our Upcoming Benefit Golf Tournament &
Banquet Celebrating 21 Years of Alumni and Community Support

The William S. Richardson School of Law is an asset to the community of Honolulu, the state of Hawai'i and the country.

This year's successful Jessup International Moot Court Team (left to right): Taryn Meeks, David Taga, Joshua Walsh, David Hu, and Robin Scott. The team received regional awards for second best memorial (brief) and third best oralist.

The Law School is internationally recognized for its diversity, academic standing and programs which are unique to its location. The School is a leader in Environmental Law and Pacific and Asian Legal Studies (PALS), and its students have excelled in national competitions among students from the finest law schools in the world.

Law School and Alumni Association representatives (from left to right) Jim Williston (in hat), Chief Justice (retired) William S. Richardson, Mina Brinkopf and Dean Aviam Soifer present one of three golf tournament scholarships to Grace Cortez (far left).

The Law School was one of the first in the nation to require its students to provide 60 hours of "pro bono" (free) public service before graduation. Many student organizations stress public service and actively contribute to the community through their programs and activities.

The Law School's Elder Law Clinic Helping Hawaii's Seniors

In partnership with the University of Hawai'i Elder Law Program (UHELP), the Elder Law Clinic provides students with knowledge and hands-on experience in meeting the needs of Hawai'i's elderly and economically disadvantaged community. Each year a portion of the net proceeds from the Annual Golf Tournament goes to support this worthwhile effort.

Your participation in this 21st Annual Golf Tournament will help the School continue its programs of service to the community, provide financial assistance to its students who are committed to public service, and maintain its high standards of academic excellence.
