Dual submission & Journal publication

**This year in addition to the JFS award competition and joint submission with Sun Yat-Sen Management Review (TSSCI), SFM conference has a new cooperative arrangement with the Pacific-Basin Finance Journal (PBFJ) for dual consideration. Attending authors will have the option of simultaneously submitting their paper to PBFJ.

To submit a paper for dual consideration, authors must indicate their interest and also certify that the paper is not under review at another journal or the PBFJ. In addition, a paper can't be considered for the PBFJ if it has previously been rejected by the PBFJ (although it remains eligible for the conference). The conference organizers will forward the list of dual submitted papers that are presented at the conference to the editors of the PBFJ for consideration.

Papers rejected at any stage of the conference review process are not considered to have been "rejected" at the PBFJ. They remain eligible for subsequent submission to the PBFJ without prejudice. While under consideration by the conference and the PBFJ, a paper may not be submitted to another journal (or the PBFJ) until the author has been notified of the outcome of the dual-submission process. Under the dual submission, PBFJ submission fees are waived.

*JFS Award papers are obligated to be published by the Journal of Financial Studies.
