INTRODUCTION

The Foundation for Hawaii Women's History is the sponsor of the second edition of the annotated bibliography, The Written Record of Hawai'i's Women, as well as the earlier 1984 edition with the same title.

The Foundation, incorporated in 1983, hopes that this updated bibliography will further increase the awareness of the many resources on women in Hawai'i, and encourage the reading and study of the subject.

Dates of Coverage

This new edition incorporates the 1984 edition and titles omitted from that edition, and adds new titles published from 1983 to 1999.

Scope of Coverage

English language sources only, mainly from the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa Library and archival collections in Honolulu.

There are two general categories of sources:

BOOKS, REPORTS, ETC. and NEWSLETTERS

Works entirely on women, some titles with parts of the book on women, especially where otherwise there is little information on the subject. Includes books, theses, dissertations, reports, papers. Articles from The Hawaiian Journal of History are included. Novels and other literary works are excluded except where biographical information is included. Reference sources and newsletters are listed separately.

MANUSCRIPTS AND ORAL HISTORIES

Manuscripts include the collected papers of women who lived and worked in Hawai'i and the records of organizations whose members were primarily women. Oral history transcripts are listed separately.

Diacritical Marks

The glottal stop and macron in the Hawaiian language are used in the annotations, in the title if they appear in the title, and for Hawai'i government agencies.

Notes

Birth and death dates are given in parentheses.

HAWAII WAR RECORDS DEPOSITORY

The Hawaii War Records Depository (HWRD) in Special Collections in the University of Hawaii at Mānoa Library.

The collection includes several manuscripts written by women or about women during World War II in Hawaii. Early HWRD workers arranged the manuscripts into categories according to general subjects or agencies from which materials arrived. They then cataloged the manuscripts under subject headings, author and title entries. The following areas are some of the more significant listings on women in the HWRD card catalog.

Requests to review these materials require 24 hours notice.

	Identifying Number
Civilian Defense	Various numbers
Nurses and Nurses' Aides	Various numbers, especially 48 (48.01-48.01), 50
Recreation	Various numbers
Red Cross	Various numbers
Spars (Coast Guard)	5.04
United Service Organization (USO)	Various numbers
Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service (WAVES)	24.01, 58.05, and reel 9
Women's Air Ferrying Service (WAFS)	7
Women's Air Raid Defense (WARD)	69.02, reel 27
Women's Ambulance Service Patrol (WASP)	69.03
Women's Army Corps (WAC)	44.05; reels 9, 47
Women's Army Volunteer Corp (WAVC)	20, 20.09
Women's Defense Service Groups [includes other groups listed here]	69
Women's War Service Association	58.08

Since the workers who cataloged this large collection did not use a controlled vocabulary and were not consistent, it is important that researchers check for variant entries. For example, material about the Women's Ambulance Service Patrol is under that title, not under "WASP." Materials pertaining to the Women's Army Corps are filed both under "Women's Army Corps" and under WAC. Materials on Spars are filed only under "Spars," not under the spelled out entry.

Two other areas in the HWRD contain significant holdings concerning women. The section on personal narratives (50) contains approximately thirty-five accounts written by women. Many of these accounts may also be duplicated under "Nurses and Nurses' Aides" listed above. A number of folders contain theme papers by the University of Hawaii students (24.01). Essays by approximately forty-seven women are in this section.
